

Driving hunger from our communities

DONOR PRIVACY POLICY

Your privacy is important to Philabundance. This policy outlines what information is collected about our donors and visitors to the Philabundance Web site, and how that information is used.

In general, you can visit the Philabundance Web site without revealing any information about yourself. Our Web servers collect domain names, but not individual email addresses, to compile data such as the number of visits our site receives, the average time spent on the site, the pages viewed, etc. We collect this anonymous data to measure the use of our site, and to help us improve the site.

There are some instances in which you may choose to provide personal information to Philabundance. This may include making a donation. In this instance, Philabundance uses encryption software to help us keep your personal information, including credit card numbers, secure. The information provided over our secure data lines is used to process your request. Online donors will be added to the Philabundance donor database, and will receive periodic mailings from Philabundance.

Though we will never sell our donor information to third parties, from time to time, we may exchange our mailing list with other organizations. Should you wish to opt out of this exchange, you may do so by contacting the Development Department at Philabundance by mail, telephone or email. Should you wish to opt out of receiving any or all mailings from Philabundance, you may also do so by contacting the Development Department at Philabundance by mail, telephone or email.

By using this site, consumers understand that data and communications, including e-mail and other electronic communications, may be accessed by unauthorized third parties when communicated over the Internet.

The Philabundance Web site may include links to other sites, such as government or health agencies that can provide you additional information, and hunger-related sites. While we strive to link only to sites that share our high standards and respect for privacy, we are not responsible for the content or the privacy policies of other sites.

Our privacy policy is subject to change without notice. We recommend that you check this page periodically for revisions. This policy is in effect as of the date below.

September 2nd, 2010