PHILABUNDANCE

Driving hunger from our communities

ABOUT THE PHILABUNDANCE COMMUNITY KITCHEN

Philabundance Community Kitchen (PCK) is an adult culinary arts vocational training program. Our mission is to promote the self-sufficiency of able bodied, low-income adults through training and placement in a commercial kitchen setting, while at the same time, providing meals to agencies that feed people in need. Much of the food used during training is donated product collected from area food businesses. Meals prepared through this program are distributed to our neighbors facing food insecurity.

PCK provides training in culinary arts, safe food handling, life skills and job readiness. Additionally, hands-on training is provided daily while producing meals for on-site service and high-volume distribution. PCK opportunities include:

- o Professional chef and guest instruction
- o Ongoing case management and social support
- o Catering experience
- o National Restaurant Association ServSafe Certification
- o Job preparation/placement assistance

ABOUT PHILABUNDANCE

Founded in 1984, Philabundance's mission is to relieve hunger in our communities today and end hunger for good. Philabundance is a regional food bank that provides tens of millions of pounds of food to our community each year through a network of 600 community partners in a 9-county service area in South-eastern PA and Southern NJ. Our work is made possible by dedicated volunteers, supportive donors, and valuable partnerships with organizations throughout our service area and beyond. In addition to food distribution, we reduce food waste, advocate for change, increase access to nutritious meals, and tackle the root causes of hunger through programs such as the Philabundance Community Kitchen. Philabundance is a proud member of Feeding America, a nationwide network of food banks leading the fight against hunger in the United States.
